Introduction

The Target Selling Insights™ (TSI) report is an objective analysis of an individual's understanding of the strategies required to sell successfully in any sales environment. It essentially answers the question, "Does this person know how to sell?" Like any profession, selling has a body of knowledge related to its successful execution. It is this sales knowledge that Target Selling Insights™ measures.

Identifying whether a person can or cannot sell is an essential component in predicting or improving sales success. Sales knowledge is certainly not the only requirement for optimum sales performance.

Understanding effective sales strategy can help lead to success as long as the skills can be properly implemented. However, just knowing sales theory is not enough, salespeople must utilise what they know.

This report will give feedback on an individual's strengths and potential areas for improvement. From this, a plan can be created to focus on areas that need development. Knowledge of strengths and weaknesses, along with a desire to excel, will allow salespeople to target areas of professional sales growth.

Prospecting

Category Analysis

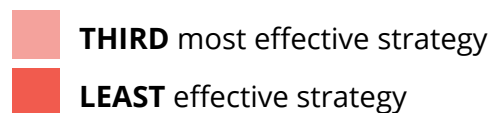

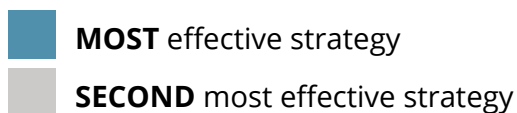

The first stage of any sales process is where prospects are identified, detailed background information is gathered, the physical activity of traditional prospecting is coordinated and an overall strategy for face-to-face selling is developed.

of the time the 1st or 2nd most effective strategy was chosen.

Tips for Improvement

It looks like you have a great understanding of the Target stage. We suggest that you focus your energy towards improving other areas in the sales process.

First Impression

Category Analysis

The first face-to-face interaction between a prospect and the salesperson is designed to enable the salesperson to display his or her sincere interest in the prospect. The goal is to gain positive acceptance and to develop a sense of mutual respect and rapport. It is the first stage of face-to-face trust building and sets the selling process in motion.

of the time the 1st or 2nd most effective strategy was chosen.

Tips for Improvement

It looks like you have a great understanding of the Adapt stage. We suggest that you focus your energy towards improving other areas in the sales process.

- SECOND most effective strategy

- THIRD most effective strategy
- LEAST effective strategy

Qualifying

Category Analysis

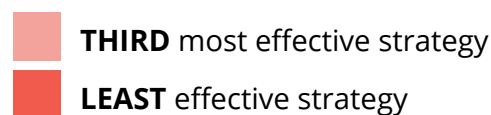

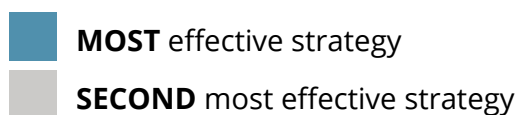

This is the questioning and needs analysis stage of the face-to-face sale. It enables the salesperson to discover what the prospect will buy, when they will buy and under what conditions they will buy. It also allows the prospect to identify and verbalise their level of interest and specific detailed needs in the product or service the salesperson is offering.

of the time the 1st or 2nd most effective strategy was chosen.

Tips for Improvement

- If the person you are working with is not in a position to make a buying decision, find out what role this person plays in the decision making process. This individual may become a vital internal advocate or provide you with other information, which could prove helpful in your sales process.

Demonstration

Category Analysis

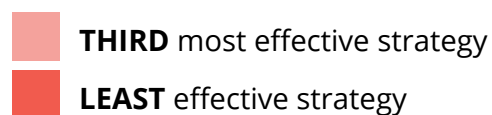

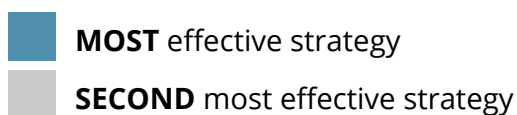

This stage involves the ability of the salesperson to present his or her product or service in such a way that it fulfills the stated or implied needs or intentions of the prospect as identified and verbalised.

of the time the 1st or 2nd most effective strategy was chosen.

Tips for Improvement

- If you've made a sales presentation and learned that your recommendation is not appropriate, listen carefully to the discussion. Do your best to determine what you missed earlier in the sales process. When you have a chance, acknowledge your misunderstanding and ask questions to gain a better idea of what you may have missed.

Influence

Category Analysis

This stage is designed to enable the salesperson to build value and overcome any doubts the prospect may have and to provide follow-up information. It is this stage of the sale that solidifies the prospect's belief in the supplier, product or service and salesperson.

of the time the 1st or 2nd most effective strategy was chosen.

Tips for Improvement

- If you are asked for references, it is most important to ensure the references you provide are appropriate to the situation. By asking your internal advocate what they're looking to learn from the references, you will be able to connect them with existing customers who can provide the most useful insight.
- If you discover the prospective buyer bought from a competitor, you may not have created enough value for your product or service. It is vital to tie your presentation to exactly what the buyer has indicated is most important to them.
